

Finding Funding at the Hill

Finding funds to support your business can be a stressful and challenging process. Although the Hill offers some databases with funding information, it does not offer advice, legal or financial, on applying for a business loan of any kind. The majority of businesses are financed through conventional methods. The Hill's resources specialize in locating venture capital, private equity capital and grant opportunities.

The following databases can be used to do company research at the Hill Center. Access them via the Databases or Login pages.

- PrivCo
- Foundation Directory

Additional information is available through other community resources.
